4. The 2nd Battalion, armored, is organized like the 1st. It has 18 T-34/76 tanks. There are as many more in the garage.
5. The 3rd Battalion, light SP guns, is organized like the first two. Its armament is twelve 76.2 mm guns, behind shields.
6. The 4th Battalion, heavy SP guns, is like the others in strength and organization. It is armed with eight SU-122 guns on a T-34 chassis. They weigh 30 tons, are six m long, 2.15 m high, and run on six wheels beside three auxiliary wheels a side.
7. In addition the regiment has 90 to 95 tanks which are garaged and not used in training. There are 125 to 130 trucks, of which only a third are used in training. Battalion commanders have jeeps.
8. Most of the training is done within the camp area, the regiment moving out only once a week. Once a week the tanks fire at moving targets with their machine guns. Their main batteries are fired only once in three or four months.
9. The soldiers find the duty very heavy and their morale is not high. The food is incomparably better than that of other arms.
